

For GPs & Practice Nurses

Workers Compensation, Confidentiality & Patients' Rights

The NSW work health and safety regulatory body, WorkCover is no longer as we know it. A new organisation has been introduced called Insurance and Care NSW, also known as iCare. The workers compensation scheme is ambiguous to the employer and each state and territory has different regulatory bodies and also follows different laws and policies.

There will also be a discussion on confidentiality and patient's rights.

By attending this session you will be able to:

- Recognise obligations with regard to workplace health and safety, as both an employer and a treating GP.
- Explain the workers compensation scheme.
- Differentiate between privacy and confidentiality.
- List resources that GPs and patients can access regarding these topics.
